PCS1 Provides Missouri Businesses New Choice In Communication Services

North Hollywood, May 14, 2004

PCS1 (Pacific Centrex Services, Inc.), a leading CLEC (Competitive Local Exchange Carrier) specializing in local, long distance telecommunications, Dialup, DSL and calling card products; servicing over 30,000 small to medium businesses in California and Nevada, has expanded its platform to include service coverage in Missouri.

As of March 9, 2004, PCS1 has been granted the authority by the Public Utilities Commission of Missouri via Certificate of Public Necessity and Convenience to provide both intrastate and interstate telecommunication services within the State of Missouri.

By focusing on every aspect of the telecommunications industry in an area, PCS1 is able to construct a platform inevitably governed by the local market however extremely cost competitive all the while maintaining its ability to modify services and products to compensate various business telecommunications demands. PCS1 intends to offer Missouri businesses the same high value telecommunications alternative to the local telephone provider that the company has offered to thousands of west coast businesses. Furthermore, PCS1's operations will bring Missouri area businesses remarkable savings, quality products and phenomenal customer service.
